Making workplace furniture more sustainable through carbon saving products and services.

re:work turns sustainable values into action

re:work exists to drive circular and more sustainable ways of purchasing and procuring furniture. We do this to...:

Eliminate Waste

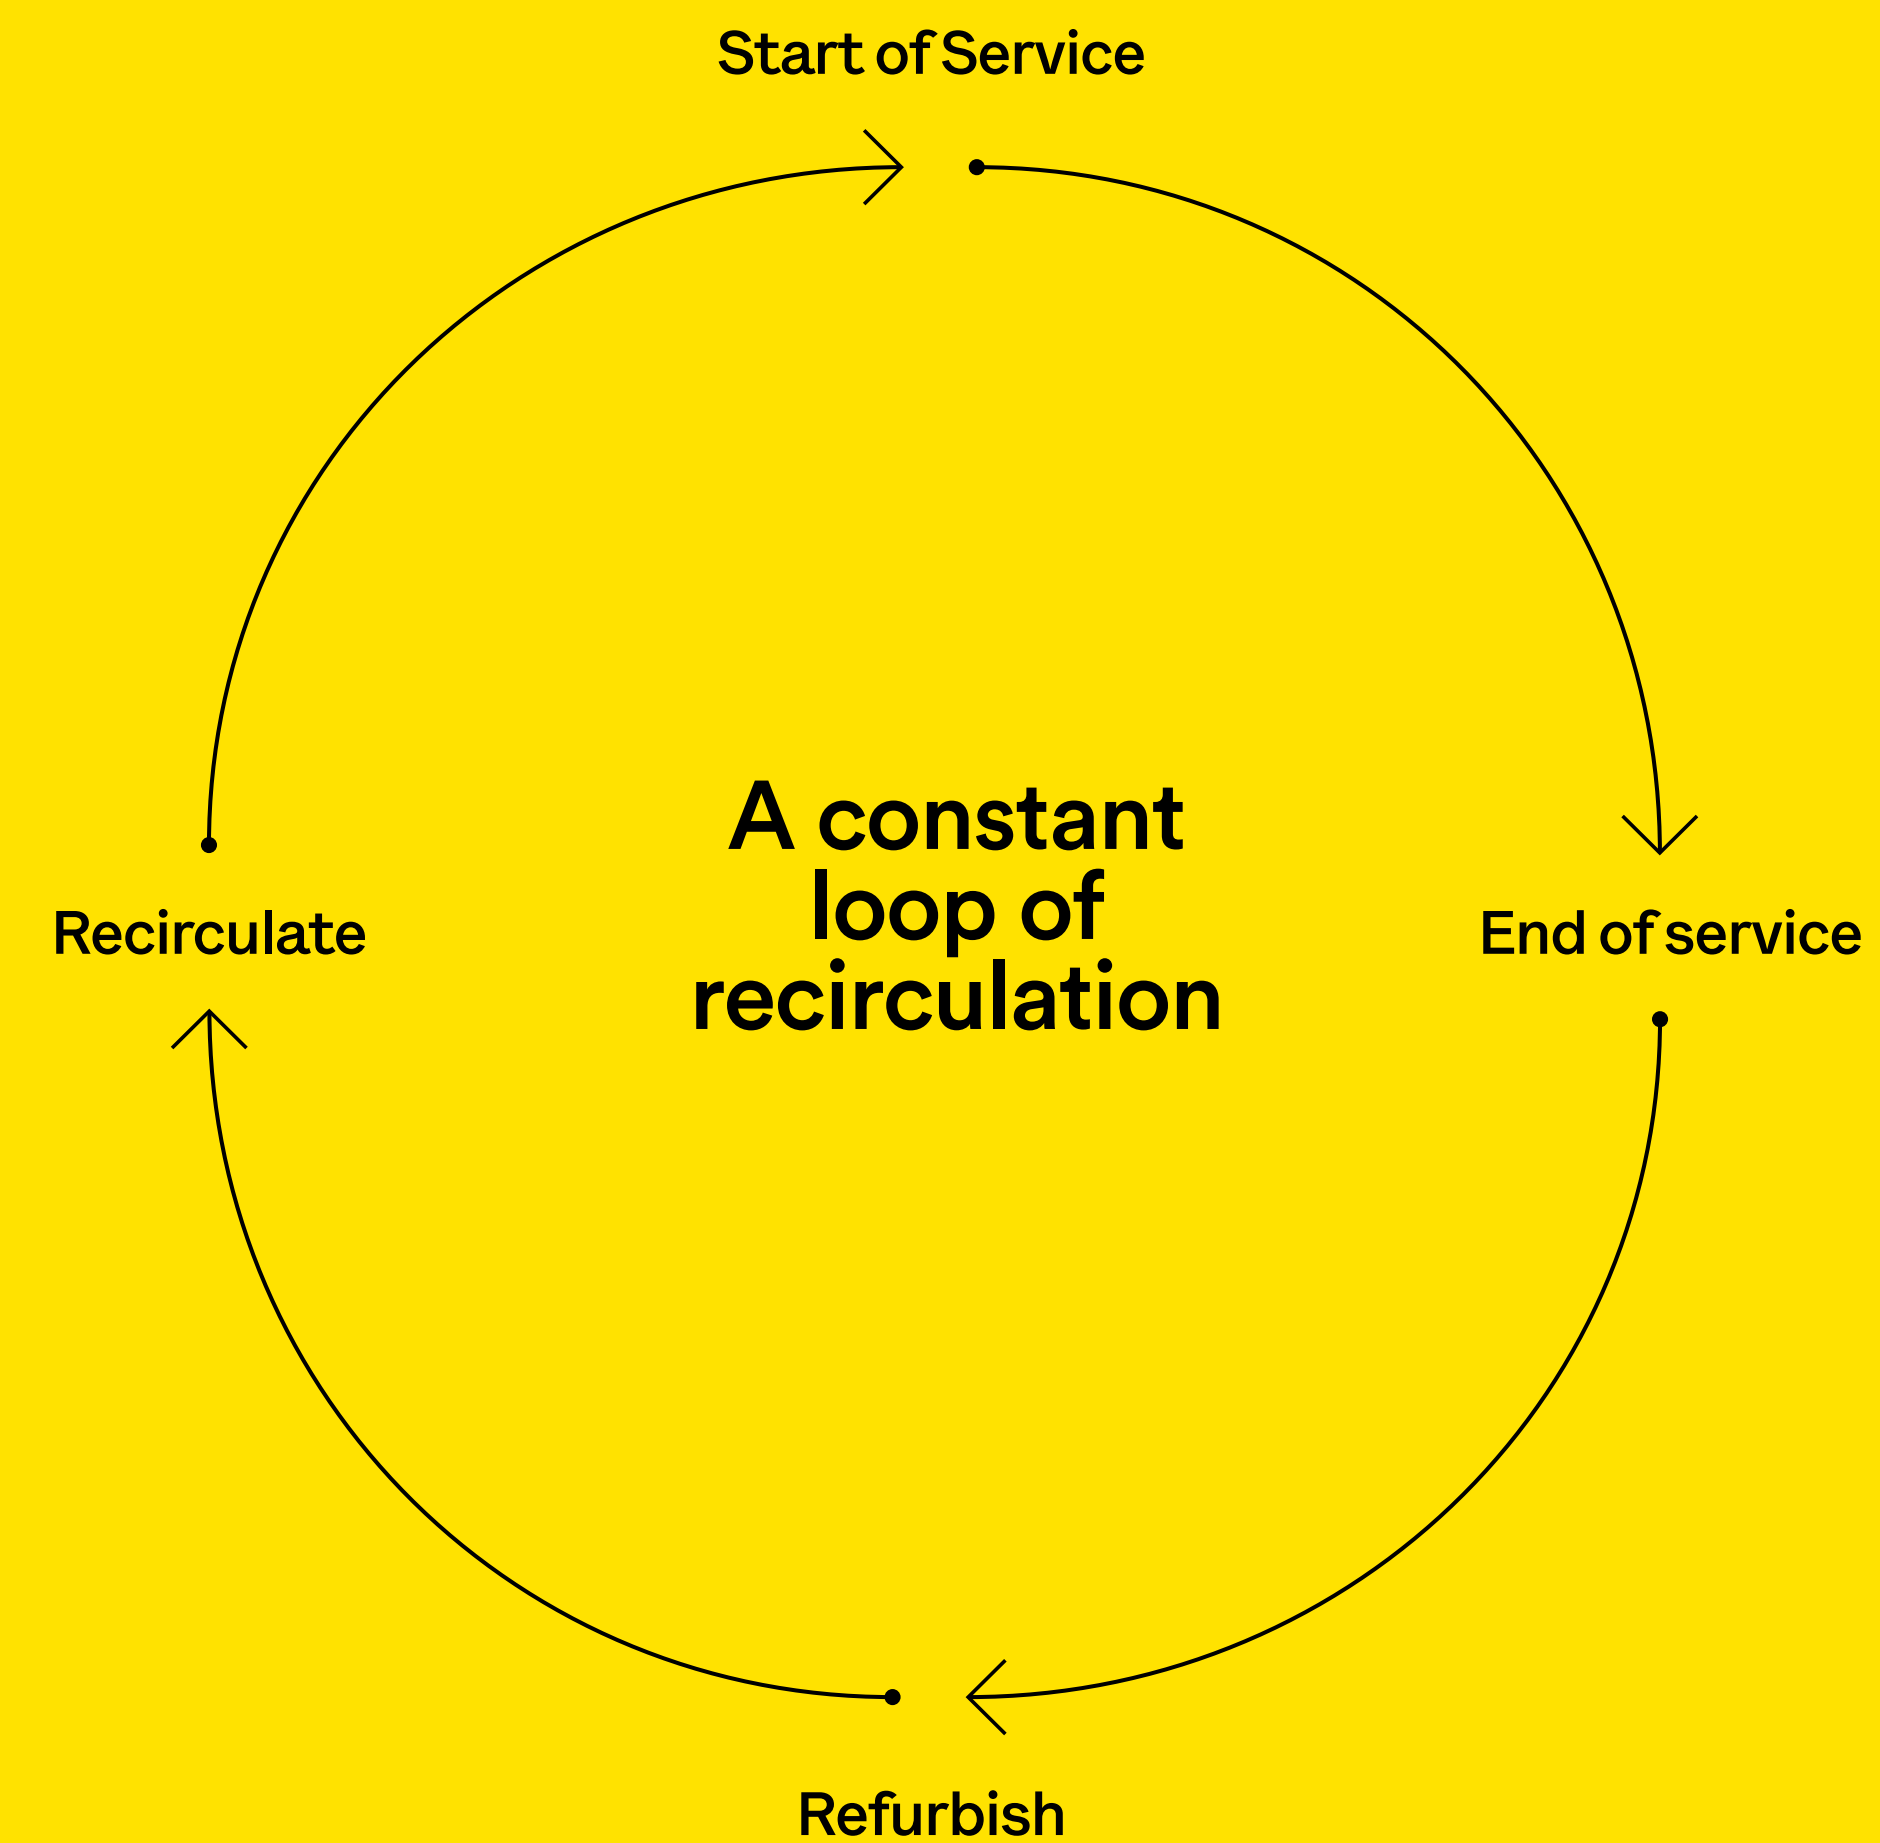

Using science, technology, and engineering, we want to raise the perceived value of preowned products, so that they are held in higher regard than their new counterparts. We want recycling to be a last resort and eliminate furniture of any condition being sent to landfill.

Lead Change

We will lead the furniture industry in embracing a circular economy. We will place ethics and the environment above all, to provide a choice of sustainable solutions with reduced carbon and resource impacts to businesses.

Environmental Responsibility

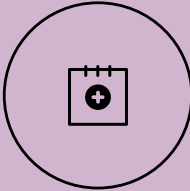

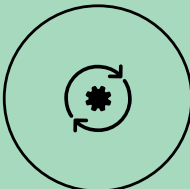

Our values are inherited from The Senator Group’s pledge to protect people and planet for nearly 50 years. In the spirit of consuming less, we will share the Group’s resources, along with bringing together people who care deeply about climate change. With customer and quality at our heart, we will grow on this journey with our clients, supporting their needs and sustainability goals.

Subscription: Retained Product Ownership

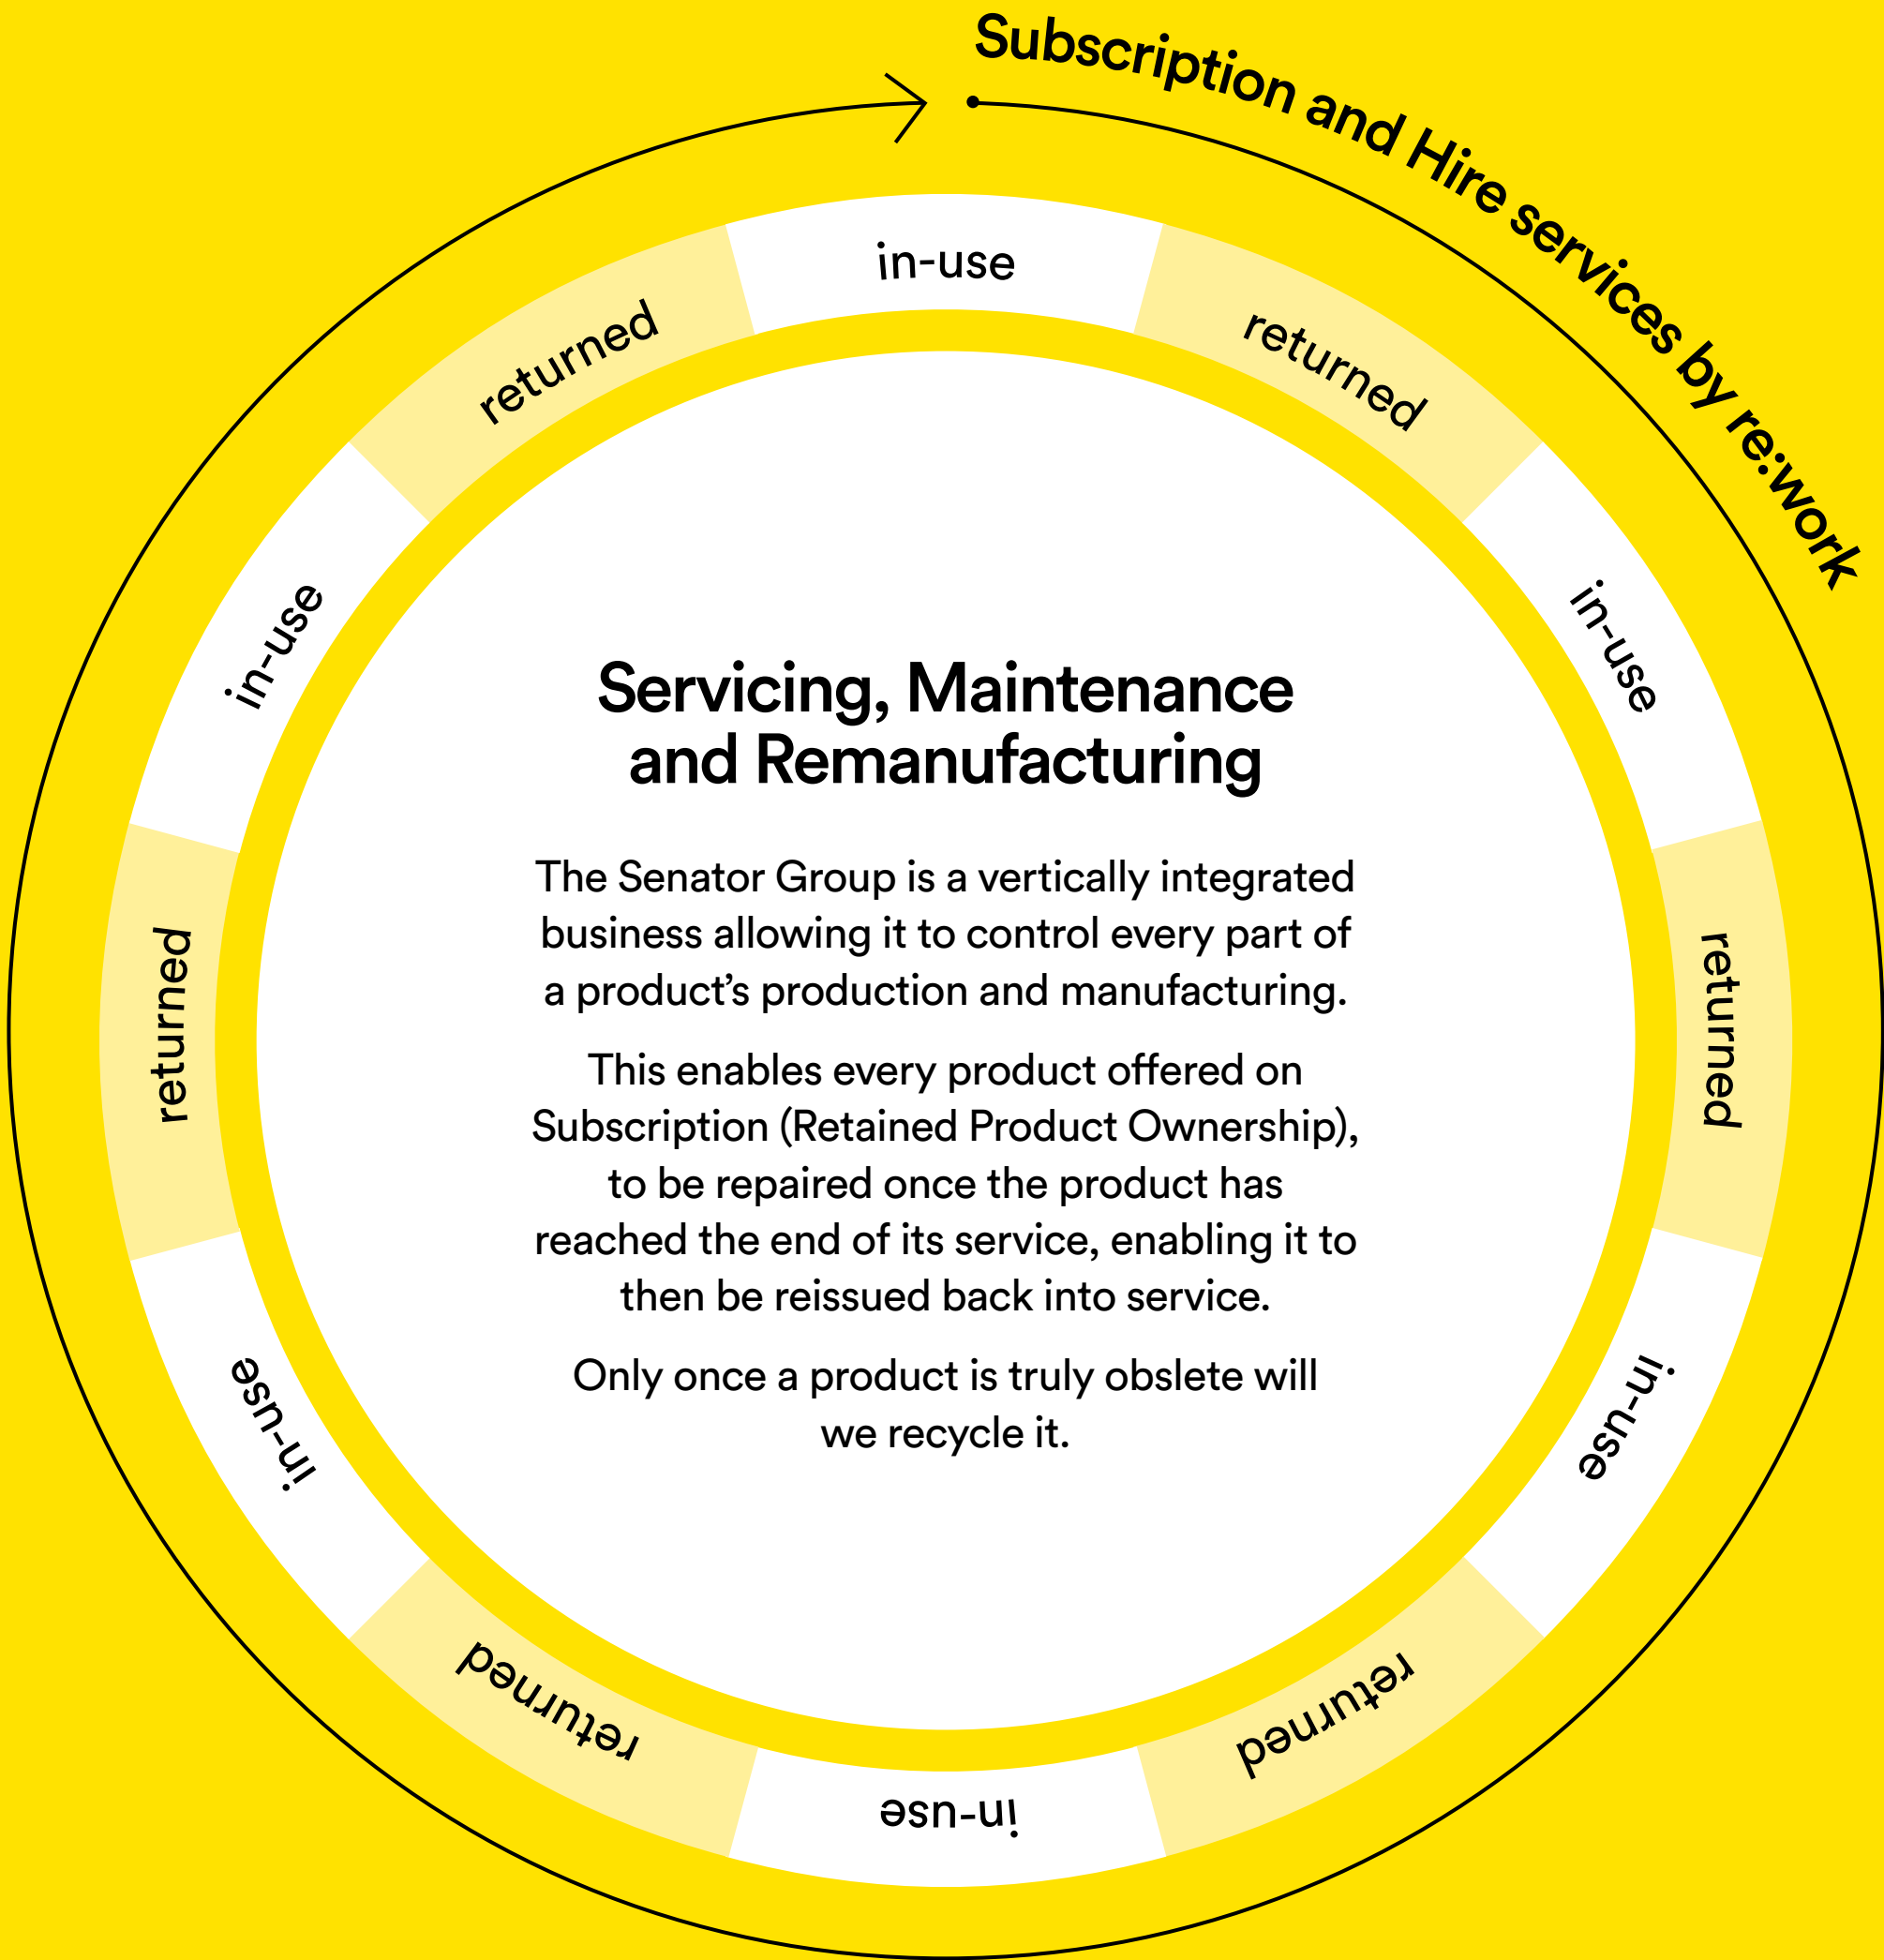

Retained Product Ownership models like our Subscription and Hire services provide solutions within the Circular Economy for manufacturers to remain responsible for products throughout their lifecycles.

When a consumer has finished with a product, the owner (in this case The Senator Group) takes it back at the End of Service agreement.

All End of Service products will be remanufactured and repaired enabling every product to be put back into stock within re:work’s ecosytem of services.

Any product that cannot be remanufactured is responsibly recycled and diverted from landfill.

Subscription: Extended Life and Gradual Reporting

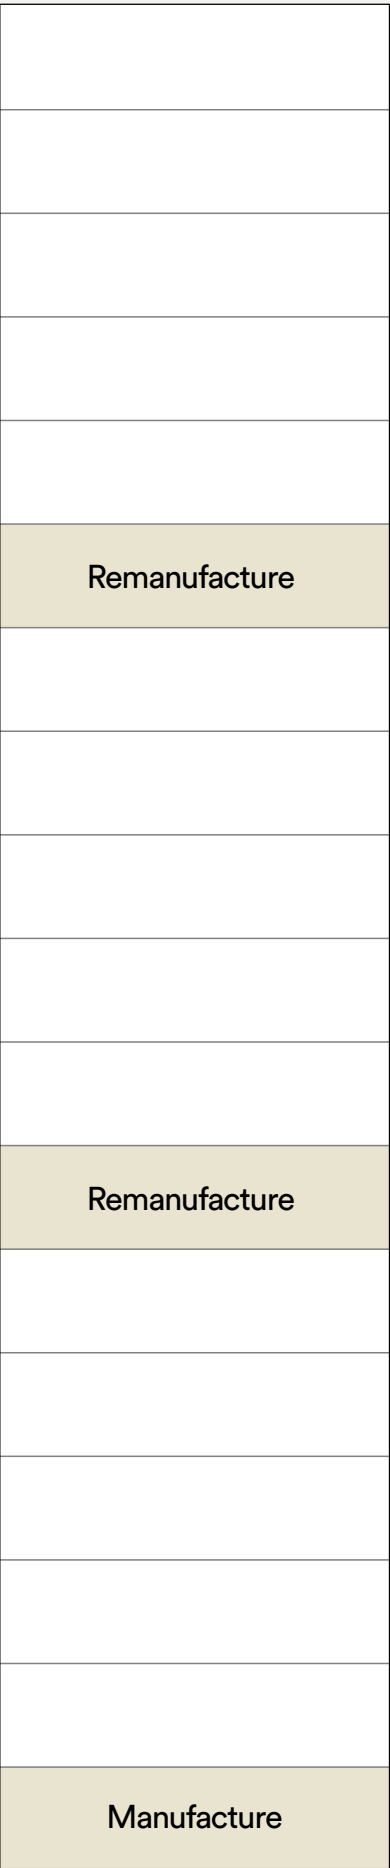

re:work can produce a pre-planned, remanufacturing ‘Program of Works’ for our products that will extend their lives. Through this, we estimate all of the carbon emissions our processes will generate throughout the life of a product, in the name of life extension.

As our remanufacturing processes use less carbon than manufacturing new, this means that per year of use, our subscription and hire products have significantly lower carbon emissions.

Through Subscription and Hire, customers are only required to report the carbon relating to the time the product was in their possession – meaning much lower carbon impacts for businesses.

1. Purchase
Total CO2e emitted to manufacture product. In an outright purchase method, all carbon is reportable in the year of purchase.

2. Subscription
CO2e calculated for planned remanufacturing works is then added to the total and divided by a product’s extended life.

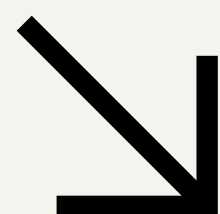

Example shown with two remanufacture = 18 years

3. Reporting method
The extended life and gradual accounting method means the carbon impact after an example use period is substantially lower than in the standard purchasing method.

Report only 1/18 of CO2e per year of furniture

Subscription: Carbon comparison

Purchase model: Ousby OUS2740HA
Three year ownership

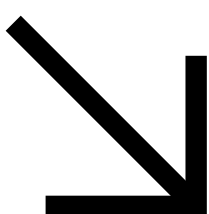

Report cradle-to-gate and transportation to site emissions in year one

- Cradle-to-gate = 49.5 kg CO₂e
- Transport to London = 1.3 kg CO₂e

Report emissions from transporting waste to recycling facilities in year 3

- Transport from London = 1.3 kg CO₂e

Total lifecycle carbon impact = 52.1 kg CO₂e

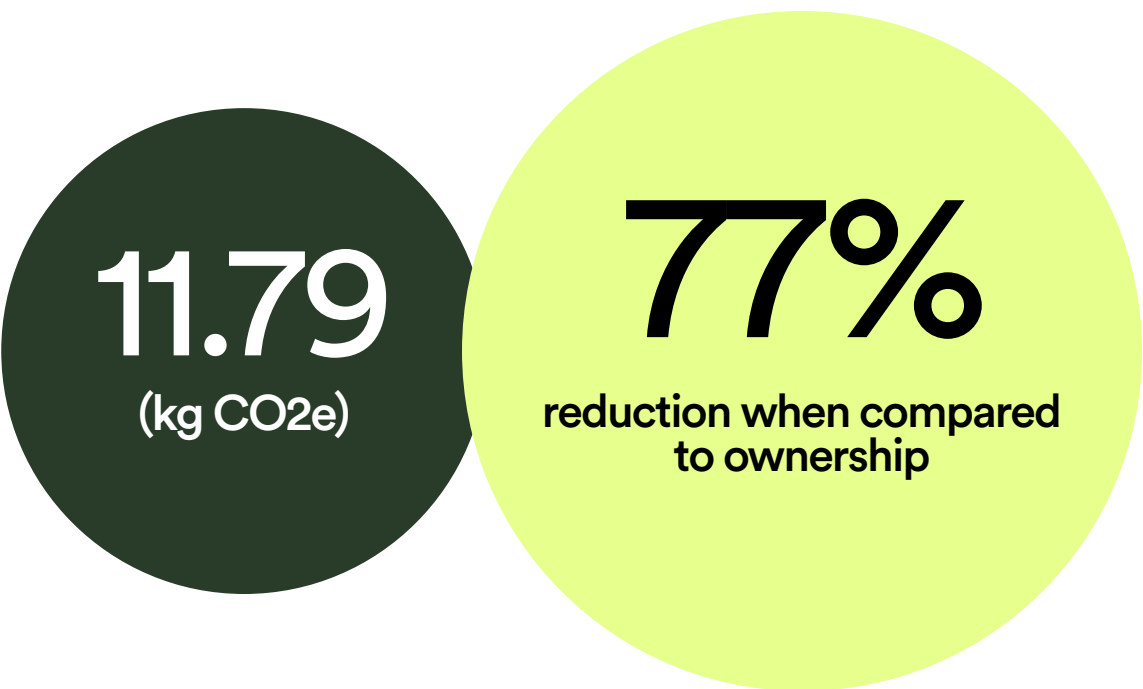

Subscription model: Ousby OUS2740HA
Three year lease

Report 1/8 of the full lifecycle emissions for each year of use

- 3.93 kg CO₂e per year of use
- This includes manufacturing, transport to and from site and remanufacturing works

End of Life

End of Life is what happens when furniture is no longer required.

Normally this results in disposal and waste creation. At re:work however, End of Life is just another stage in a product's lifecycle. We take furniture that is pre-owned, pre-market, returned, ex-hire and subscription, and extend its life through reconditioning, finding it a new home, or returning it restored to the original owner.

End of Life is provided by The Senator Group's waste recycling service Sustain.
